The Jett Trial for Cockrell's Murder Sept. 14th.

Grand Jury to Investigate Charges of Alleged Perjury in Harrison County.

YOUNG GIRL SHOTS HERSELF.

HOT AFTER OFFENDERS.

Cynthiana, Ky., Sept. 8.—The Harrison grand jury now in session will investigate charges of perjury against several witnesses in the Jett-White case. The witnesses have been subpoenaed and county attorney Webster says the indictments will be asked against James Back, Jim O'Connor and two others.

Witnesses also been summoned to testify before the grand jury in an investigation of King, and an effort will be made to indict King on a serious charge.

Judge Osborne this morning overruled a special demurrer by the defendants, and also a motion for a continuance in the Charles Jett case and the case was set for trial for Monday, Sept. 14, on account of the necessary absence until then of Judge J. W. Black, one of the defendants' attorneys.

GIRL SHOTS HERSELF.

London, Ky., Sept. 8.—Sister, the eighteen-year-old daughter of Capt. W. R. Dillon shot herself in the breast this morning, the ball entering near the right nipple and coming out near the spinal column. Her parents insisted on her attending school this morning, which she did not want to do. She went into an adjoining room and shortly afterward the shot was heard, and the girl was found lying upon the floor. She is in a critical condition and will probably die.

LOCAL WOMAN FOR PRESIDENT

Mrs. Joseph W. Thompson, president of the chapter, was made a delegate to the state U. D. C. meeting in Owensboro in October, and was given the privilege of appointing two other delegates.

It was also decided to invite the next state meeting to Paducah and Mrs. Joseph W. Thompson's name will be put before the meeting this year, as candidate for state president. The chapter will do all in its power to assist the veterans in the entertainment of visitors, to the reunion of Western Kentucky soldiers here in October. The next regular monthly meeting will be with Mrs. Mary Burnett, on West Broadway, the first Tuesday in October.

COUNCIL MEETING.

REGULAR SESSION THIS EVENING AT CITY HALL.

The regular session of the councilmanic board will be held tonight, having been postponed from last night on account of its being Labor day. The regular routine business will come up, but there will be few other things so as is known, of unusual interest.

Judge Sanders Says Paducah Will Continue to Flourish

The Vaughan-Westlake Trouble Was Partially Aired This Morning in the Police Court.

MURDER CASES TRANSFERRED

The main attraction in Judge Sanders' court this morning was the Vaughan-Westlake affair which has attracted more or less publicity since A. N. Vaughan, a detective for the law and order forces, and Mrs. Westlake, a resident of Campbell street had an altercation at the I. C. passenger depot several days ago.

Attorney D. A. Cross, who is acting prosecuting attorney for Mr. Gilbert announced for the defense of Mrs. Westlake. Mr. W. F. Smith, Jr., was asked to prosecute and said he was defending Vaughan. Attorney W. V. Eaton was then appointed but said he was assisting Attorney Cross in the defense of Mrs. Westlake. Attorney Dinguid was then asked to prosecute and did so.

The evidence in substance was that Vaughan spoke to the woman who was searching for a lost grip several times before she said anything to him, and when she did Officer Hurley was talking to some one else and did not pay much attention to them, but heard the woman call him a dirty pimp and declare that if he didn't let her alone she would use a club on him, after he had said something to her about leaving town and it was a good thing. Vaughan then asked the officer if he was going to allow her to talk that way to him, and the officer replied that he knew nothing of the merits of the case, but if Vaughan would go with them or would get a warrant for her, he would arrest her. Vaughan then became abusive and said he would not do his duty, and about this time Officer Toole Owen came up and Vaughan said something to him about trying to play bully because he had a uniform on, whereupon the officer took off his coat and pistol and said that if that was all in the way he would whip him all over the platform.

Marshal Jesse Walker of Fulton, corroborated the officers and said there was quite a crowd attracted by the altercation between Vaughan and the woman, and afterwards by that of the officers and Vaughan, but he heard no obscene or profane language. He saw Vaughan speak to the woman several times, he said, before she replied and "set him out."

Officers Owen and Singery did not hear the trouble, but Officer Owen said he only stepped up when he saw the crowd and asked what was the trouble, thinking it was over the grip when Vaughan turned and insulted that he, Officer Owen, was trying to take advantage of him because he was an officer. Officer Singery saw the crowd as he got off a car and got there in time to prevent trouble.

A motion was made by Attorney Cross to dismiss the charge against the woman on the grounds of insufficient proof, claiming that the evidence showed that Vaughan started the trouble, and she only resorted to his gibes as anyone else would have done, and that as the evidence showed that no profane or obscene language had been used, he asked an acquittal.

The court overruled the motion, all the evidence not being in, and left the case open until this afternoon.

Judge Sanders said in commenting on the case that there had been a great deal of talk about this case and he intended to get at the bottom of it.

He said we had one of the most beautiful and attractive and prosperous cities to be found anywhere, despite what some people said about Paducah being so bad. He called attention to the fact that August 8, with thousands of strangers in the city in addition to our own population, there was no trouble of any kind, and that yesterday with the town full of pleasure seekers many strangers, there was no trouble and not an arrest was made.

"With all the snobs you hear so much about," said the court, "that bring in about $15,000 a year which we would have to pay in taxes if we didn't have them, and notwithstanding it is so near election, there was not one little drunk here before me today, and that was from night before last. I say that there is not a better city anywhere than Paducah. We have come to stay, as it were. We will continue to flourish like a big sunflower and be as brilliant as one. You know sunflowers are among the brightest flowers we have. We will continue to enjoy prosperity and happiness, despite the many bad things that are said by certain people about us, and will continue to do business at the old stand. This is all I have to say about Paducah until I write my memoirs—I believe that's what they call them. You know I'm writing about Paducah Past, Present and Future. We've had a grand past, have a great present, and a promising future."

The warrants after the evidence was heard this afternoon were dismissed, the evidence not developing sufficient cause, in the eyes of the court, for a fine for a breach of the peace.

Judge Sanders this morning turned over to the grand jury, which is now in session, all the felony cases on the docket. He said the grand jury, being in session was the proper authority to investigate, although Attorney Wheeler Campbell, for George Day, alleged slayer of Calvin Cary, wanted a preliminary hearing. Other cases turned over were: Mary Thomas, colored, charged with the murder of Lee Crawford; James Book, colored, maliciously cutting George White; Charles Buck, grand larceny; Frank Bloat, maliciously assaulting Pink Campbell.

A breach of peace case against Willis Monut was continued; H. E. Whitesides was fined $3 and costs for a breach of the peace. James Taylor was fined $5 and costs for throwing stones at John Mix. George Wright, colored, was fined $1 and costs for drunkenness. The case against Pre-

The case against Lula and Charles Foster for fighting was continued. George Reynolds, white, was fined $50 and costs for presenting a pistol at his wife and was further recognized in the sum of $200 for his good behavior towards her for a period of twelve months.

Mr. H. V. McChesney, superintendent of public instruction, W. F. Gray, a clerk in the auditor's office at Frankfort, and others were in the city today en route to Smithland, Livingston county, where the warrants against Mr. Young Allison, editor of the Louisville Herald, and the Frankfort correspondent, George Riley, for alleged criminal libel, are to come up today.

The Herald, it will be recalled published an article that Mr. McChesney was drawing his expenses from the state while traveling about in the interest of the Democratic ticket, and on this the warrants were based.

The probability is the case will not come up until late today, as this afternoon Sept. McChesney and others were still here waiting for the packet.

WILL GO TO MEMPHIS.—Mr. H. A. Rose, the lumber dealer, is preparing to move his plant to Memphis shortly, and hopes to be ready for business there by the last of next month. He has built up a good business here and is moving because it will be a better location.

CHRISTIANS KILLED HARVEST OF DEATH

Great Excitement Over Street Fight at Beirut.

More Indictments in the Postoffice Cases Brought at Washington.

SUDDEN DEATH IN DAVIES

Constantinople, Sept. 8.—In a fight in the streets between Christians and Muslims, at Beirut, seven Christians were killed. There is great excitement.

War between Bulgaria and Turkey, is now regarded as inevitable. It is believed even that the outbreak of hostilities will occur before the end of September, when the reinforcements from Asia will have been concentrated in Macedonia and the vilayet of Adrianople.

The Bulgarians and Macedonians residing in Constantinople are in terror of massacre. A large number of them were arrested a few days ago as a preventive measure and they have not yet been released.

MORE INDICTMENTS.

Washington, Sept. 8.—Seven more indictments were brought today in connection with the postal scandals. The names will not be announced until late in the day.

DEATH IN DAVIES.

Owensboro, Sept. 8.—While discussing sudden death with friends at her home, Mrs. J. S. M. Boyal, apparently in perfect health, fell dead. She lived at Reynolds, this county.

BOREING IS BETTER.

London, Ky., Sept. 8.—Congressman Boreing is slightly better today.

NEW FOREMAN

Mr. F. P. Toof Chosen to Manage the Grand Jury.

He is President of the Good Government League in Paducah.

Mr. F. P. Toof, of the Cohanus Company and president of the Good Government League, was elected foreman of the grand jury this morning. Mr. J. Henry Smith, who is a candidate for office, was selected foreman yesterday, but asked to be excused on account of his canvass, and was excused.

Mr. Toof's name was the one drawn out of the wheel to succeed Mr. Smith, and he is now foreman.

It is consequently expected that there will be something doing at this session of the grand jury, which will be in session three weeks. As there are many jail cases to dispose of before the grand jury will have time for much else, however, it cannot be told to what extent other matters may be considered.

TROUBLE WAS PREVENTED.

Marshal Crow this morning received a telephone message from Will Greek, the restaurant keeper, saying that his wife had come down and was breaking up all his furniture and that he did not want to have trouble with her. Officer Woods and Austin were sent down and prevented trouble. No warrants will be issued.

Mr. Robert Rudolph Dies at San Antonio, Texas.

Former License Inspector P. D. Jarvis Dies Suddenly After a Brief Illness.

MRS. JAMES FRANKLIN DIES

News of the unexpected death at San Antonio, Tex., of Mr. Robert Rudolph, formerly of Paducah, was received in the city last evening by his brother, Mr. F. G. Rudolph. Robert Rudolph was one of the best known and most popular young men who ever lived in Paducah and when here about a month ago was apparently in good health, and his many friends were delighted at the apparent improvement. Yesterday his brother received a letter from him in which he was feeling well, and last evening a telegram came announcing his death, which was doubtless due to lung trouble.

Mr. Rudolph was born in this county thirty years ago and came to Paducah fourteen years ago and accepted a position in a grocery store. He was subsequently clerk at the New Richmond hotel and later at the Palmer house, when ill health three years ago forced him to seek improvement in Texas. He was connected for a time with a telephone company there but was at the time of his death a clerk at the Menger hotel, the largest there.

Mr. Rudolph was liked by all who knew him. He was pleasant to all and in his contact with the hundreds of traveling men who came to the hotels where he was employed, made many friends who will learn of his death with sincere sorrow.

The deceased was a member of Paducah lodge, B. P. O. E. and also of the First Baptist church. He was unmarried and leaves one brother, Mr. H. M. Rudolph, of Louisville, and one sister, Mrs. Maggie Bryant, of Madison street, Paducah, and five half brothers, Messrs. F. G. Rudolph, Flais Rudolph, Paducah; R. M. Rudolph, Wioaliffe, J. W. Rudolph, Memphis, and D. C. Rudolph, Ogden's Landing.

The remains will be prepared for burial and shipped here at once, and probably arrive Thursday morning. They will be taken to the home of Mr. F. G. Rudolph, on South Sixth street, and funeral arrangements will be made later.

The funeral will take place Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the First Baptist church, burial at Oak Grove under the auspices of the Elks. The pall bearers will be: Messrs. Charles Reed, Joseph L. Friedman, James Utterback, W. A. Barry, T. L. Criece and Richard Kelly.

Mr. P. D. Jarvis, former license inspector and one of the best known citizens of the South Side, died suddenly yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock from congestion at the home of Postman Joe Yarbrow, his son-in-law, at Sixth and Broad streets. The deceased had been ill since Sunday, but many of his friends did not know it and the news of his demise came as a shock to them.

His children are as follows: Messrs. H. C. Jarvis, Houston, Texas, and F. W. Jarvis, of Paducah; Mrs. L. P. Head, Bowling Green, Ky., and Mrs. Joe Yarbrow, Paducah.

Mr. Jarvis, who leaves four children, was about 55 years of age. The funeral will take place from the Mr. Yarbrow's residence tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The interment will be at Oak Grove.

Mrs. Della Franklin, wife of James Franklin, a grocer of Meyers street in Mechanicsburg, died yesterday afternoon, at her home on Meyers street, from gastritis. She was 25 years of age. She was born in Dawson but has resided in Paducah several years. The burial took place at New Hope cemetery in the county this morning.

Mr. Charlie Ozment died yesterday in Mayfield, of typhoid fever, the direct cause of his death being an affection of the heart. He was 35 years of age and left a wife and three children. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Wrenn Webb, at Wright's chapel. Graves county this morning.

A Wife Says:

"We have four children. With the first three I suffered almost unbearable pains from 12 to 14 hours, and had to be placed under the influence of chloroform. I used three bottles of Mother's Friend before our last child came, which is a strong, fat and healthy boy, doing my housework up to within two hours of birth, and suffered but a few hard pains. This liniment is the grandest remedy ever made."

Mother's Friend

will do for every woman what it did for the Minnesota mother who writes the above letter. Not to use it during pregnancy is a mistake to be paid for in pain and suffering. Mother's Friend equips the patient with a strong body and clear intellect, which in turn are imparted to the child. It relaxes the muscles and allows them to expand. It relieves morning sickness and nervousness. It puts all the organs concerned in perfect condition for the final hour, so that the actual labor is short and practically painless. Danger of rising or hard breaths is altogether avoided, and recovery is merely a matter of a few days.

Druggists sell Mother's Friend for $1 a bottle. The Bradford Regulator Co., Atlanta, Ga. Send for our free illustrated book.

THE DOVE AND THE ANT.

Find the Archer's Companion.

An Ant, going to a river to drink, fell in and was carried along in the stream.

A Dove, observing the accident, and pitying her condition, threw into the river a small bough, which she hastily plucked from a friendly tree growing by the brink of the stream, and by means of which the Ant gained the shore.

The Ant, upon another occasion, seeing a hunter with his fowling piece aiming at the Dove, who had rendered her such timely service, stung the man in the foot sharply, and made him miss his aim, and so saved the Dove's life.

OFFICIALS INSPECT

Several in the City This Morning to go Over Cairo Division

Improvements at the Illinois Central Hospital—Dawson Wreck.

Superintendent Philbrick, of the Louisville division of the I. C. and the following officials arrived in the city last night and this morning started out over the Cairo extension of the I. C. on an inspection tour, the object being to acquaint the officials with the territory. General Freight Agent J. L. Durrett, T. W. Howell, a freight service man of Louisville; T. H. Harwood, freight service at Evansville; C. C. Cameron, general freight agent on lines south of the Ohio river.

Much improvement is going on at the I. C. hospital. The colored ward has been remodeled to an extent and a new hardwood floor put in. Hardwood floors are being put in several private nurse's rooms also and the porch upstairs is being enclosed with glass for use in the winter. The glass can be removed and will be taken out every summer.

The investigation of the Dawson freight wreck Saturday will be held this afternoon in Master Mechanic T. F. Barton's office at the I. C. shops. The witnesses are all instructed to report there at that time. It is understood that several changes will be made as a result of the wreck, but this is merely rumor.

Roommaster J. M. Russell, of the Louisville division of the I. C., was in the city last night on business.

AFRAID OF SPIES

MISS ELLEN STONE ABANDONS LECTURE TOUR.

Chelsea, Mass., Sept. 8—Ellen Stone is here, having temporarily discontinued the lecture platform, because, as her friends and associates say, she does not wish to have any of her words bear even indirectly upon the trouble in Turkish territory, and besides Turkish spies, of whom plenty are at work locally, are hanging around the Stone residence, as they are around the home of Miss Daniels, another missionary. Miss Stone practically refuses to be seen, nor will she send word to the door, and at the American board headquarters, the big Congregational house building, Greek, Turkish and Armenian peddlers have been harried, as the officials don't wish to take chances with spies.

DEVoured BY WORMS.

Children often cry, not from pain, but from hunger, although fed abundantly. The entire trouble arises from inanition, their food is not assimilated, but devoured by worms. A few doses of White's Cream Vermifuge will cause them to cease crying and begin to thrive at once, very much to the surprise and joy of the mother. 25c at DuBois, Kolb and Co.

FOUGHT AT DANCE

Three Men Knifed in the General Confusion.

Trouble Arose Over Disposition of Barbecued Meats.

A dance was held in Mechanicsburg near the hippo tracks, and quite a crowd was in attendance last night when a dispute arose between Andy Fudge and George Griggs, according to reports, over some barbecued meats. Words led to blows and the men drew their knives and undertook to put on another off watch.

Fudge was stabbed in the breast and the other man was cut in several places. John Griggs, a brother to one of the combatants, appeared in the role of peace maker with the same disastrous results, as he was cut by one of them in the left arm.

Doctors had to attend all the men, but none of the wounds is believed to be serious.

ASSAULTED BY SONS

Will Marable, a Hack Driver. Toughly Handled

Alleged to Have Slapped Their Mother —All Were Arrested for felonies on Assault.

CASES SET FOR TOMORROW

Will Marable, a colored hack driver, was waylaid this morning about 6 o'clock near the corner of Seventh and Ohio streets and badly beaten up and cut by Will Well, Clarence and Roney Dawson, sons of Al Dawson, colored, who also drives a hack.

The trouble started Saturday when Mrs. Dawson, the mother of the boys, began "ragging" Marable, as he termed it, about being ill, and he asked her to stop saying anything about him on the street. She ran towards him and struck him, Marable claims, and he slapped her and kept her at a distance to prevent trouble. She cried for her husband who came out of the house and attacked Marable who beat him off also. The matter was dropped until this morning when the three sons waylaid him and nearly succeeded in beating him to death with sticks and bricks.

Marable lives at 627 South Eighth street and was going east on Ohio street en route to Etter's hack stables to take out his hack when attacked. He claims he did not see any one and was taken wholly unawares and attacked from behind, his assailants hiding behind a fence until he had passed. His scalp was badly cut in three places, the brick going to the bone, and his face badly bruised and skinned. Marable was knocked to the ground and attacked while unable to rise, he claims.

After the men had satisfied themselves they attempted to get away but were arrested and taken to the city prison to answer to the charge of malicious assault with intent to kill.

Marable was taken to the office of Dr. Davis, at Seventh and Jackson and the injuries dressed. The light created great excitement in the neighborhood.

Officers Harley and Owen arrested the three boys and the case was set for tomorrow morning.

A breach of the peace case against Will Marable was also continued.

DAILY AVERAGE, 2127.

Personally appeared before me this day E. J. Paxton, general manager of

The Sun, who affirms that the above statement of the circulation of The Sun for the month of Aug., 1903, is true to the best of his knowledge and belief.

PETER PURYEAR,

Notary Public McCracken County.

DAILY THOUGHT.

"Tis the mind makes the body

rich."—Taming of the Shrew.

THE WEATHER.

Showers tonight with cooler. Wednesday fair weather and cooler.

Some of our Democratic friends are taking a great deal more interest in the election now than they will be this time next week.

Mr. Bryan can exult with himself some more now. The Colorado Democratic convention reaffirmed the Kansas City platform. He probably feels that he is not quite dead, after all.

The Christian unsuccesses are becoming so common in Turkey that it is probable the powers will yet have to take a hand in restoring peace and order.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

To Be Voted On at the November

Election.

CHAPTER 50.

An act to provide for an amendment to Section 151 of the Constitution of Kentucky.

"The General Assembly may, by general laws only, authorize CITIES

OR TOWNS OF ANY CLASS to provide for taxation for municipal purposes, on personal property, tangible and intangible, based on income, ad valorem, or franchise, in lieu of an ad valorem tax thereon;

provided, cities of the first class not be authorized to omit the portion of an ad valorem tax on property of any steam railroad, allway, ferry, bridge, gas

and telephone, telegraph and other franchises.

order over there. Such a course at least appears to be timely.

The later day celebrations all over the country indicate that the working people greatly enjoy the holiday.

Hundreds of thousands of men were in line and each year the observance becomes more general and gigantic.

King Peter, of Serbia, is still having his troubles. The latest treat with which he was honored was a shower of stones, one striking him in the face.

If nothing worse than stones is used on King Peter, however, he will be more fortunate than his predecessor.

When the Go. Belites in Kentucky sent out of the state for the assistance of criminal lawyers of shady reputation, their purpose to run a perjury bill to humiliate the Republicans driven from the state offices was clear to all observers of ordinary intelligence, says

the Globe-Democrat.

Will the Democrats of Kentucky

who were a few months ago howling about how the Frankfort office holders trust skinned Col. Hendrick and forced him to withdraw as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, forget sufficiently to go to the polls in November and endorse the robbery of whom they complained? It remains to be seen.

The girls should take warning.

They have during the past few years been confiscating various articles of masculine apparel, invading the various professions in which man had an undisputed monopoly for untold generations, and otherwise threatening to displace men as the lords of creation, but now a young man has taken the prize for the best trimmed bonnet at the big Chicago milliners contest, over scores of fair female milliners.

This should be sufficient to bring home to the sex the danger of their modern tendencies. It would be sad indeed if the men should be forced to these sort of things for a livelihood and leave the ambitions maleless to do all the men's work.

Colonel Morris Belknap's reply to Governor Beckham's challenge regarding pardons was dignified and to the point. He says that he does not care to enter into any promises with Governor Beckham, for the latter before he was elected for the present term promised faithfully that he would pardon no person convicted of murder or manslaughter by a fair jury, and then broke his promise. He said that so far as the pardoning power is concerned, that should be, Colonel Belknap, be elected governor, he will never pardon anyone for political reasons, or pardon anyone whom he does not honestly and conscientiously believe to be entitled to executive clemency.

WED IN MARSHALL—Mr. W. R.

Wilson, a restaurant keeper of Second and Washington streets, of this city, and Miss Minnie Sargent, of Sharps,

Marshall county, were married Sunday night at the bride's home. They have returned to this city to reside.

MORE CHANGES

New Districts May be Made on the Illinois Central

Mr. T. L. Dubbs Succeeds Trainmaster Spencer on the Fulton District.

It is reported that the Illinois Central is engaged in a plan to redistrict some of its system. For instance there are three divisions between Fulton,

Ky., and New Orleans, viz: Water

Valley, Canton and McComb City, the last division being 150 miles, the distance from McComb City to New Orleans. According to the reported redistricting of territory, the running division on the south end is to be changed from McComb City to New Orleans to Jackson, Miss., and New Orleans a distance of about 153 miles.

The average running distance of engineers and conductors is from 105 to 165 miles, but under the new arrangement the engineers and conductors will run an average of 153 miles.

Mr. T. L. Dubbs, who has been asstant trainmaster of the Fulton district, has been promoted to the position of trainmaster to succeed G. W.

Spencer, resigned. Mr. Dubbs was formerly a conductor, and Conductor

Watt Graham, of Jackson, Tenn., has been made assistant chief dispatcher to succeed Mr. Stocker at Fulton.

There is scarcely a day that changes are not made on the districts below.

ALICE of OLD VINCENNES

By MAURICE THOMPSON

Copyright, 1930, by the BOWEN-MERRILL COMPANY

"Maybe you think I haven't any letter for M'kier Roussillon," he blurted, "and maybe you are quite certain that I am not going to the house to take the letter."

"M. Roussillon is absent, you know," Father Beret suggested. "But cherry pies are just as good while he's gone as when he's at home, and I happen to know that there are some particularly delicious ones in the pantry of Mme. Roussillon. Alice gave me a juicy sample, but then I dare say you do not care to leave your pie served by her hand. It would interfere with your appetite. Eh, my son?"

Rene turned smart about, watching his head and laughing, and so with his back to the priest he strode away along the wet path leading to the Roussillon place.

Father Beret gazed after him, his face relaxing to a serious expression in which a trace of sadness and gloom seemed like an elusive twilight. He took out his letter, but did not glance at it, studying it lightly gripped in his snowy right hand. Then his old eyes stared vacantly, as eyes do when their sight is cast back many, many years into the past. The elusive was from beyond the sea—he knew the handwriting a waft of the flowers of Avignon seemed to rise out of it, as if by the pressure of his grasp.

A stoop shouldered, burly man went by, leading a pair of goats, a kid following. He was making haste excitedly, keeping the goats at a lively trot.

"Then four, five Beret," he flung out carelessly, and walked rapidly on.

"You, ah, his mind is busy with the newly arrived cargo," thought the old priest, regarding the salutation. "His throat aches for liquor—the poor man!"

Then he read again the letter's super-scription and made a faltering move as if to break the seal. His hands trembled violently, his face looked gray and drawn.

"Come on, you traitor," cried the receding man, jerking the things of skin by which he led the goats.

Father Beret rose and turned into his damp little hut, where the light was dim on the cracked laughing cassette the door against the clay walled wall. It was a large, untidy, cluttered room. A rude bed on one side, a shelf for table and two or three wooden stools constituting the furniture, while the uneven pineboards of the floor wobbled and clattered under the priest's feet.

It had been many years since a letter from home had come to Father Beret. The last before the war now in hand had made him ill of nostalgia, fairly shaking his long determination never to quit for a moment his life-work as a missionary. Ever since that day he had found it harder to meet the many and stern demands of a most difficult and exacting duty. Now the mere touch of the paper in his hand gave him a sense of returning weakness, dissatisfaction and longing. The home of his boyhood, the rushing of the Rhone, a seat in a shady nook of the garden, Madeline, his sister, pretty beside him and his mother smiling somewhere about the house—it all came back and went over him and through him, making his heart sink strangely, while another voice, the sweetest ever heard—but she was ineffable and her memory a forbidden fragrance.

Father Beret tottered across the barren little room and knelt before the crucifix, holding his clasped hands high, the letter pressed between them. His lips moved to prayer, but no sound; his whole frame shook violently.

It would be unimpeachable discretion to enter the chamber of Father Beret's soul and look upon his sacred and secret trouble, nor must we even speculate as to its particulars. The good old man writhed and wrestled before the cross for a long time, until at last he seemed to receive the calmness and strength he prayed for so fervently. Then he rose, tore the letter into pieces so small that not a word remained whole and squeezed them so truly together that they were expressed into a tiny, solid ball which he let fall through a crack between the floor pineboards. After waiting twenty years for that letter, hungry as his heart was, he did not even open it when at last it arrived. He would never know what message it bore. The link between him and the old sweet days was broken forever. Now, with God's help, he could do his work to the end.

He went and stood in the doorway, leaning against the side. He looked toward the "river house," as the inhabitants had named a large slummy which stood on the bluff of the Wabash not far from where the road bridge at present crosses, and saw men gathering there.

Meanwhile Rene de Bonville had delivered Mme. Roussillon's letter with due promptness. Of course such a service demanded pie and claret. What still better pleased him, Alice chose to be more amiable than was usually her custom when he called. They sat together in the main room of the house, where M. Roussillon kept his books, his curiosities of Indian manufacture collected here and there, and his surplus firearms, swords, pistols and knives, ranged not unpleasantly around the walls.

Of course, along with the letter, Rene bore the news, so interesting to himself, of the boat's tempting cargo still discharged at the river house. Alice understood her friend's danger—felt it in the intense enthusiasm of his voice and manner. She had once seen the men courting on a similar occasion when she was but a child, and the impression then made still remained in her memory. Instinctively she resolved to hold Rene by one means or another away from the river house if possible. So she managed to keep him occupied eating pie, sipping watered claret and chatting until night came and Mme. Roussillon brought in a lamp. Then he hurriedly scratched his cap from the floor beside him and got up to go.

"Come and look at my handiwork," Alice quickly said; "my shelf of pies, I mean." She led him to the pantry, where a dozen or more of the cherry pies were ranged in order. "I made every one of them this morning and baked them; had them all out of the oven before the rain came up. Don't you think me a wonder of cleverness and industry? Father Beret was polite enough to flatter me; but you—just cut what you want and say nothing! You are not polite, M. Rene de Bonville."

"I've been showing you what I thought of your goodies," said Rene. "Eating's better than talking, you know, so I'll just take one more," and he helped himself. "But that compliment enough."

"A few so I would make me another hot day's work," she replied, laughing. "Pretty talk would be cheaper and more satisfactory in the long run. Even the four in these pies I ground with my own hand in an Indian mortar. That was hard work too."

By this time Rene had forgotten the river house and the liquor. With softening eyes he gazed at Alice's rounded cheeks and snowy hair, over which the light from the cautious earthen lamp she bore in her hand flickered most effectively. He loved her madly, but his fear of her was more powerful than his love. She gave him no opportunity to speak what he felt, having ever ready a quick, bright change of mood and manner when she saw him peering up at her to address her in a sentimental way. Their relations had long been somewhat familiar, which was but natural, considering their youth and the circumstances of their daily life, but Alice somehow had kept a certain distance open between them, so that very warm friendship could not suddenly resolve itself into a troublesome passion on Rene's part.

We need not attempt to analyze a young girl's feelings and motives in such a case. What she does and what she thinks are mysteries even to her own understanding. The influence most potent in shaping the rudimentary character of Alice Tarleton (called Roussillon had been only such as a lonely frontier post could generate. Her associations with men and women, with few exceptions, been impracticable in an educational way, while her reading in M. Roussillon's little library could not have given her any practical knowledge of manners and life.

Her affection for Rene was interfered with by her large admiration for the heroic, masterful and magnetic knights who charged through the romances of the Roussillon collection. For although Rene was unquestionably brave and more than passably handsome, he had no armor, no war horse, no shining lance and ennobled shield—the difference, indeed, was great.

Perhaps it was the light and heat of imagination shining out through Alice's face which gave her beauty such a fascinating power. Rene saw it and felt its electrical stroke send a sweet shiver through his heart while he stood before her.

"You are very beautiful tonight, Alice," he presently said, with a suddenness which took even her alertness by surprise. A flush rose to his dark face and immediately gave way to a grayish pallor. His heart came near stopping in the instant, he was so shocked by his own daring, but he laid a hand on her hair, stroking it softly.

Just a moment she was at a loss, looking a trifle embarrassed; then, with a merry laugh, she stepped aside and said:

"That sounds better, M. Rene de Bonville; much better. You will be as polite as Father Beret after a little more training."

She slipped past him while speaking and made her way back again to the main room, whence she called to him:

"Come here. I've something to show you."

He obeyed, a sheepish trace on his countenance betraying his self-consciousness.

When he came near Alice, she was taking in his buckhorn look on the wall in rapier, one of a beautiful pair hanging side by side.

Guard and butt were of silver; the blade, although somewhat corroded, still showed the fine, wavy lines of Damascus steel and traces of delicate engraving, while in the end of the hilt was set a large oval turquoise.

"A very queer present to give a girl," said Rene. "What can you do with them?"

A captivating dash of playfulness came into her face and she sprang backward, giving the sword a semi-circular turn with her wrist. The blade sent forth a keen hiss as it cut the air close, very close to Rene's nose. He jerked his head and dung up his hand.

She laughed merrily, standing beautifully poised before him, the rapier's point slightly elevated. Her short skirt left her feet and ankles free to show their graceful proportions and the perfect pose in which they held her supple body.

"You see what I can do with the collection," she exclaimed, giving him a smile which fairly blinded him. "Notice how very near to your neck I can thrust and yet not touch it. Now?"

She darted the keen point under his chin and drew it away so quickly that the stroke was like a glint of sunlight.

"What do you think of that as a nice and accurate piece of skill?"

She again assumed her pose, the right foot advanced, the left arm well back, her bosom, finely developed body leaning slightly forward.

Rene's hands were up before his face in a defensive position, palms outward.

Just then a chorus of men's voices sounded in the distance. The river

The rapier was making a crisscross pattern of flashing lines.

house was beginning its carousal with a song. Alice let fall her sword's point and listened.

Rene looked about for his cap.

"I must be going," he said.

Another and louder swish of the rapier made him pirouette and dodge again with great energy.

"Don't," he cried, "that's dangerous. You'll put out my eyes. I never saw such a girl!"

She laughed at him and kept on whipping the air dangerously near his eyes until she had driven him backward as far as he could squeeze himself into a corner of the room.

Mme. Roussillon came to the door from the kitchen and stood looking in and laughing, with her hands on her hips. By this time the rapier was making a crisscross pattern of flashing lines close to the young man's head while Alice, in the enjoyment of her exercise, seemed to concentrate all the glowing rays of her beauty in her face, her eyes dancing merrily.

"Quit now, Alice," he begged, half in fun and half in abject fear. "Please quit—I surrender!"

She thrust to the wall on either side of him, then springing lightly backward a pace, stood at guard. Her thick yellow hair had fallen over her neck and shoulders in a loose wavy mass, out of which her face beamed with a bewitching effect upon her captive.

Rene, glad enough to have a cessation of his peril, stood laughing dryly, but the singing down at the river house was swelling louder and he made another movement to go.

"Your surrender, you remember," cried Alice, renewing the sword play. "Sit down on the chair there and make yourself comfortable. You are not going down yonder tonight; you are going to stay here and talk with me and Mother Roussillon. We are lonesome and you are good company."

A shot rang out keen and clear, there was a sudden tumult that broke up the singing, and presently more firing at varying intervals cut the night air from the direction of the river.

Jean, the hunchback, came in to say that there was a row of some sort. He had seen men running across the common as if in pursuit of a fugitive, but the moonlight was so dim that he could not be sure what it all meant.

Rene picked up his cap and bolted out of the house.

CHAPTER III.

THE BAPTISM OF THE DEMILION.

THE row down at the river house was more noise than fight, so far as results seemed to indicate. It was all about a small dame Jeanne of the brandy which an Indian of the name of Long Hair had seized and run off with at the height of the carousal. He must have been soberer than his pursuers or naturally fleet, for not one of them could catch him or even keep long in sight of him. Some pistols were emptied while the race was on, and two or three of the men swore roundly to having seen Long Hair jump sideways and stagger, as if one of the shots had taken effect. But, although the moon was shining, he somehow disappeared, they could not understand just how, far down beside the river below the fort and the church.

It was not an uncommon thing for an Indian to steal what he wanted, and in most cases light punishment followed conviction, but it was felt to be a capital offense for an Indian or anybody else to rape a demilion of the brandy, especially one sent as a present by a friend in New Orleans to Lieutenant Governor Abbott, who had until recently been the commandant of the post. Every man at the river house recognized and resented the enormity of Long Hair's crime, and each was for the moment ready to be his judge and his executioner. He had broken at once every rule of frontier etiquette and every bond of sympathy. Nor was Long Hair ignorant of the danger involved in his daring enterprise. He had beforehand carefully and stolidly weighed the conditions, and true to his Indian nature had concluded that a little wicker covered bottle of brandy was well worth the risk of his life. So he had put himself in condition for a great race by slipping out and getting rid of his weapons and all surplus weight of clothes.

This incident brought the drinking bout at the river house to a sudden end, but nothing further came of it that night and no record of it would be found in these pages but for the fact that Long Hair afterward became an important character in the stirring historical drama which had old Vincennes for its center of energy.

Rene de Bonville probably felt himself in bad luck when he arrived at the river house just too late to share in the liquor or to join in chasing the bold thief. He listened with interest, however, to the story of Long Hair's capture of the commandant's demilion and could not refrain from saying that if he had been present there would have been a quite different result.

"I would have shot him before he got to that door," he said, drawing his heavy flintlock pistol and going through the motions of one aiming quickly and firing. Indeed, so vigorously in earnest was he with the pantomime that he actually did fire, unintentionally of course, the ball burying itself in the doorjamb.

He was laughed at by those present for being more excited than they who witnessed the whole thing. One of them, a bonny faced and grizzled old sliver, beamed at him contemptuously and said in rapid French, with a curious accent caught from long use of backwoods English:

"Listen how the boy brags! Ye might think to hear Rene talk that he actually amounted to a big pile."

This personage was known to every soul in Vincennes as Uncle Jazon, and when Uncle Jazon spoke the whole town felt bound to listen.

"Ah! how well he shoots, too," he added, with an intolerable wink. "Aimed at the door and hit the post. Certainly Long Hair would have been in great danger! Oh, yes, he'd 'ave killed Long Hair at the first shot, wouldn't he though?"

"All right, Uncle Jazon," said Rene, laughing and blowing the smoke out of his pistol. "Twas you, all the same, who let Long Hair trot off with the governor's brandy; not I. If you could have hit even a doorpost it might have been better."

Uncle Jazon took off his cap and looked down into it in a way he had when about to say something final.

"Ventrebien! I did not shoot at Long Hair at all," he said, speaking slowly, "because the second shot was unarmed. He didn't have on even a knife, and he was havin' enough to do dodgin' the bullets that the rest of 'em were plumpin' at 'im without any compliments from me to bother 'im more."

"Well," Rene replied, turning away with a laugh. "If I'd been scalped by the Indians as you have I don't think there would be any particular reason why I should wait for an Indian thief to go and arm himself before I accepted him as a target."

Uncle Jazon lifted a hand involuntarily and rubbed his scalpless crown; then he chuckled with a grotesque grimace as if the recollection of having his head skinned were the funniest thing imaginable.

"When you're killed as many of 'em as Uncle Jazon has," remarked a bystander to Rene, "you'll not be so hungry for blood, maybe."

"Especially after ye've took fifty-nine scalps to pay for yer one," added Uncle Jazon, replacing his cap over the hairless area of his crown.

The men who had been chasing Long Hair presently came straggling back with their stories—each had a distinct one of how the fugitive escaped. They were wild looking fellows, most of them somewhat intoxicated, all profusely liberal with their stock of picturesque profanity. They represented the roughest element of the well high lawless post.

"I'm positive that he's wounded," said one. "Jacques and I shot at him together, so that our pistols sounded just as if only one had been fired—bang! that way—and he leaped sideways for all the world like a bird with a broken leg. I thought he'd fall; but he run faster'n ever, and all at once he was gone—just disappeared."

"Well, tomorrow we'll get him," said another. "You and I and Jacques, we'll take up his trail, the thief, and follow him till we find him. He can't get off so easy."

"I don't know so well about that," said another. "It's Long Hair you must remember, and Long Hair is no common buck that just anybody can find asleep. You know what Long Hair is. Nobody's ever got even with 'im yet. That's so, ain't it? Just ask Uncle Jazon, if you don't believe it!"

To Our Dorothy Dodd Customers and Also Those Who Have Never Worn This Celebrated Shoe.

DEAR FRIENDS:

YOU have the average health and the average strength of a woman of your age. Yet you find yourself unduly fatigued by a day spent upon your feet. This is not a question of your condition but a question of your shoes. It is just here that we can help you.

We have built our famous "Dorothy Dodd" Shoe on an entirely new plan

Not shaping it from guesswork measurements on a wood last, but using the actual bones, muscles and ligaments of the foot as the last for the shoe, working entirely from "X-ray" photographs. The result is the most remarkable shoe you ever dreamed of, and one which makes no day too long for its happy possessor. We can never make you realize its comfort till you try a single pair. Won't you do this today?

French Lick and West Baden Springs

In the highlands of Indiana—a two hour ride from Louisville there flow wonderful healing waters, that you'd spend hundreds of dollars to enjoy if they were in Europe.

A recent visitor from Philadelphia, who formerly went to Carlsbad every year, said: "I do not see why anyone goes to Europe for medicinal waters. The water is as beneficial, and the scenery and surrounding country, the air and the opportunities for recreation are better; the hotels and all accommodations are much finer at French Lick-West Baden Springs"—and this gentleman is a native of Switzerland.

The splendidly wooded hills with the cool invigorating air of these highlands where one can enjoy rambles in the depths of the forest, or rides and drives among the numerous bridle paths and roadways, afford pleasure for those who desire rest and quiet; while at the splendid and casinos one can have all the entertainment and pleasures possible at the most fashionable resorts.

The first case on the docket was that against Charles Gordon, colored, known as "Big Charlie" for the alleged murder of George Howard, white, on the Cairo extension of the I. C. The case was left open for a few days in order to secure all witnesses possible.

COUNT THURSDAY

Much Interest Manifested in Goddess of Labor Contest.

Labor Day Passed Off Most Enjoyably to All Yesterday.

The count of ballots to declare the Goddess of Labor will be made Thursday night. There is much interest manifested in the outcome and the race is said to be a hot one.

The parade yesterday was very creditable and the celebrations were carried through without any accident of any kind. The crowd at the park was orderly and the officers had no trouble at all yesterday as there was comparatively little drunkenness and every body seemed in a good humor.

The street car company did an enormous business keeping its entire force of motormen on the cars until late last night. They handled but few less than on circus day, when 13,000 fares were collected.

It is generally acknowledged that the parade and the festivities were the most creditable ever witnessed in Paducah and everybody enjoyed the day.

SHOULDER BROKEN

PAINFUL ACCIDENT TO YOUNG MAN AT WALLACE PARK.

Mr. William Geer, of Mechanicsburg, a young man well known in musical circles in the South Side, met with a painful and serious accident yesterday afternoon at Wallace park where he had gone to celebrate labor day.

Geer and several companions were playing about the park at wrestling when some one grabbed hold of him and threw him to the ground. The left shoulder blade was broken and Geer had to be taken home and placed in bed. Dr. J. F. Troutman dressed the injuries. Geer passed a restless night but is better today.

TO-LOCATE HERE

YOUNG PHOTOGRAPHERS LIKE PADUCAH VERY MUCH.

They are opening a gallery, which will be known as "The Elite," at the corner of Third and Court, and will be prepared for customers in a short while. Both gentlemen are clever artists and will do some good work.

CARD OF MILTON G. BROOKS.

A report having been circulated referring to the matter of Lockup Keeper during the administration of what was known as "The Business Man's Council," in order to set myself right and to repudiate the many false statements made, I now desire to give the facts in the case. At the time the Republican council was in office and it became known to me that the office of lockup keeper was to be filled I approached Captain Farley and Mr. Williams asking that they support me for said office, they declined saying it was not yet time for a negro to fill office, that it would hurt the party and the administration. I then went before the council while in session and handed to Mayor Yeiser a document which was handed by him to Mr. Arthur Cole, the clerk. Mr. Cole read said communication, endorsing me for the office and said document was signed by many members of the McKinley and Lincoln club, and after same was read by Mr. Cole, it was ordered received, filed and made a part of the Record.

The above are the facts and are given by me, solely to repudiate the many false statements circulated.

MILTON G. BROOKS.
Paducah, Ky., September 8, 1903.
This is to certify that Milton G. Brooks this day made oath that the above statements are true.

Makes Fat, Strength, Blood, Bone and Muscle.

If you are tired, broken down, despondent, worn out, pale, losing flesh, have no energy, don't feel like arising in the morning for the day's work, you should take a bottle of this wonderful medicine.

Doctor's Note, March 19, 1903.
Gentlemen: It affords me little pleasure to test by the wonderful properties of Hayes' Beechwood Emulso-Hypo with iron as it saved my life when the physicians said that I could not get well. After taking six or eight bottles I weighed 150 pounds. That has been ten years and I am still living in fine health. Wishing you success in its sale, I am yours truly, FRED S. DAWSON.

Read what the editor of the Southerner, Columbia, Miss., says:
Shaffer Hayes Medicine Co., Paducah, Ky. In 1901 my mother commenced taking Hayes' Beechwood Emulso-Hypo with iron when the doctors said her lungs were so badly involved that she would not likely live but a few weeks. It improved her so rapidly that she was soon in good health for one of her years. I wish you the success you deserve with your Beechwood Emulso-Hypo. Yours truly, AARON H. DAVIS.
